

Paul Clarke

In 1954, at 53 years old, Paul Clarke moved to Fort Wayne and joined North American Van Lines to support the efforts of James Edgett. Clarke remained with North American until 1970, when he retired as Assistant President. Upon retirement Clarke took a great interest in what is today the Fort Wayne Community Foundation. From 1972 to 1984, Clarke was the Foundation's Executive Director and as such shared his vision of community awareness and personal commitment for this community foundation with others across Fort Wayne. In addition to contributing his time and talents to the Foundation, he gave generous financial gifts to it, establishing the Clarke Endowment Fund and the Paul Clarke Foundation.
